YOUTH CLIMATE SUMMIT 2016

leading for the future

Leading for the Future, the 2050 Climate Group's Youth Climate Summit 2016, will take place on Saturday 26 November 2016 at the Technology and Innovation Centre (TIC) in Glasgow from 10:30-18:00 (GMT). The Youth Climate Summit is an exciting opportunity for anyone aged roughly 20-30 to meet and learn more about the issues that matter to them.

With a diverse range of talks and workshops from sectors relevant to you, this is a great opportunity for you to learn about the challenges in all our futures and how to be a part of the transition needed to achieve a clean, sustainable and fair future!

As a summit delegate, you will have the opportunity to:

- Improve your skills and understanding of how you can be a future leader in your chosen field;
- Learn what different sectors in Scotland are doing to address climate change;
- Take part in a great networking opportunity;
- Be part of an exciting social movement of young people.

The evening will conclude at the Art School where we are having our Post Summit Party from 18:00-22:00. This is another opportunity to network and learn more about the 2050 Climate Group. Confirmed musical acts Jo Mango and Mungo's Hi Fi will help us celebrate after the success of an engaging and empowering day.

ScotRail have kindly provided us with a limited number of rail passes from anywhere in Scotland to enable those travelling further distances or financially prohibited from attending to join us. If a free rail ticket would allow you to attend, please specify why in the eventbrite registration form and we'll get in touch.

More about Scotland's 2050 Climate Group:

The 2050 Climate Group, Scotland's youth climate group, is a collection of young professionals across Scotland who all share a commitment to climate change mitigation and adaptation. The group's aim is to lead a social movement towards a low carbon Scotland by engaging, educating and empowering Scotland's young leaders to take action on climate change.
